“For you, a thousand times over.

More than that. A million times over. No. As many times as necessary, beyond the Kite Runner. No matter how much each dungeon changes, no matter which dungeon appears, I will continue on a straight path until I can reach my friend. For that is the only thing I can remember.” -Ray

You wake up in a dungeon, no memories, no nothing. How cliché. But, so long as there are monsters to fight and loot to plunder, you're bound to eventually reunite with your friend, right?
